84 PEOPLE KILLED, WEEKEND CAR MISHAPS

9 MEMBERS OF FAMILY KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

5 PERSONS LOSE LIFE IN A COLLISION NEAR BRISTOL, INDIANA

20 PERSONS WERE INJURED BY TRAFFIC MISHAPS IN MINNESOTA

By UNITED PRESS
The Springtime lure of the open road caused at least 84 deaths in automobile accidents in this country Sunday. The toll was especially high in the east as multitudes of tourists took to highways after weeks of rainy weather which had held them indoors.

Nine members of one family were killed in a grade crossing accident at New Hampton, N. Y.

Five persons were killed in a collision near Bristol, Ind.

A father and three sons were killed in a grade crossing accident at Jeffersonville, Ind.

Nine persons were killed in and about New York and five persons were killed in Chicago accidents.

One man was killed at Hartland, N. Y. in an automobile collision.

A young woman, who a few hours previous had acted as bridesmaid to her sister, was killed near Chickasha, Okla., Sunday when a motor car carrying the bridal party crashed in a ditch.

In the southeast, Charles E. Miller, railroad freight agent, was killed by a hit and run driver on a Mobile street, while Charles Youcum, Marion, S. C., was the victim of a crash between two small cars.

Twenty persons were injured by traffic mishaps in Minnesota among the more seriously hurt were Winston Carlton, 20, Minneapolis, whose automobile collided with a fire truck; Rudolph A. Fisher, Dakota county deputy sheriff, believed to have been struck by an automobile and pinned beneath his motorcycle, condition serious today but not critical, and Mrs. Josephine Goea, 20, and her sister, Miss Margaret Lapone, 18 Minneapolis, whose car collided with another machine.

Joseph Szeigel, 57, of Scottsdale, Pa., and Anita Ferrari, 7, Jeanette, Pa., were struck and killed by automobiles at street intersections.

Avery Squires, of La Peer, Mich., and 10-year-old William Ryno of Lansing, Mich., died of injuries received in automobile accidents.

Charles Haven, 30, Hartford, Mich., was killed when his automobile was forced off the road, striking a tree.

A Brewster, N. Y., youth mistook a train for a highwayman and plunged to his death through a railroad bridge that had been torn apart by a railroad wrecking crane near Danbury, Conn.

Six persons were killed over the week end in the vicinity of Philadelphia.

Lester E. Moore, 40, was killed near Sparta, Mich., when he was pinned underneath his burning machine after a collision.

At least six persons were killed in traffic and grade crossing crashes in Ohio.

Two persons in Cleveland and one in St. Clairsville, Ohio, were dead today of injuries sustained when struck by autos.

Hilary Blahausz, 62, of Florida, N. Y., and Julius Hippich, 6, of Liberty, N. Y., died at Middleton, N. Y., after automobile accidents.

Charles Freeman of Corinth, N. Y., was killed when car overturned at Saratoga, N. Y.

Edmund Lowe, 36, of Hammond, Ind., leaned out of his car to talk to a friend and was struck by a man driving on the wrong side of the highway. Lowe died a short time later.

MIDDLEWEST TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Chicago, April 29.—(UP)—Fourteen persons including eight members of two families, were killed in middlewest traffic accidents.

Five persons were killed and 10 injured in a head on collision between a picknickers automobile and a Detroit-Chicago motor bus near Bristol, Ind. Four of the dead were members of one family. They were Mrs. Hazel Mabie, 39, Charles Mabie, 17, Ruth Mabie, 15, Myrtle Mabie, 19. The fifth was Daniel Papa, 20, friend of the Mabies and driver of the automobile.

A father and his 3 sons were killed when their automobile was demolished by a Cincinnati and Louisville passenger train at Jefferson, Ind. The dead: Edgar Snodgrass, 40, Howard, 17, Henry, 16 and Wilbur, 5, all of Marysville.

Five persons were killed in Chicago accidents. They were Lawrence Urban, 18, Henry Keppler, 55, John Addenbrook, 50, Michael Murphy, 49, and William Markey, 35.

FIRST AUTO RIDE ENDS IN TRAGEDY

Middletown, N. Y., April 29.—(UP)—The first automobile ride of the year for the family of Antonio Bianchi, ended in tragedy when the Erie railroad's Western express crashed into their sedan and its ten occupants.

Bianchi, 42, his wife, Rose, 43, and seven children, ranging in age from 16 years to ten months, were killed. Frank Bianchi, 16, was the only survivor.

The father had taken out his car yesterday for the first time after storing it for the winter.

ONCE UNDER THE SHADOW OF NOOSE, WOMAN IS FREED

Chicago, April 29.—(UP)—Once under the shadow of a noose, Mrs. Catherine Cassler walked from a court room to freedom today. A murder conviction against her was nolle prossed by the state because one of the chief witnesses died in prison and the other refused to testify.

Mrs. Cassler, who was in jail three years, swooned when the case was quashed. She was unconscious ten minutes. Court attaches feared for her life as the long period behind bars had weakened her heart.

CLAIM 1,000 MEXICAN REBELS HAVE SURRENDERED

HAILED BY GOVERNMENT AS SIGN REVOLUTION IS NEARING END

GEN. CALLES BEGINS ADVANCE NORTHWARD BY RAIL TODAY

Mexico City, April 29.—(UP)—Information that 1,000 rebels commanded by Gen. Francisco Borquez had surrendered to the Mexican federal army in Sonora was hailed by government officials here today as a sign that the revolution which began March 3 was nearing an end.

The rebels surrendered "unconditionally," Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, federal commander in chief, said in his report of the surrender, received here late last night.

"In my opinion, the rebellion in Sonora has been terminated, as the principal traitors continue their flight northward alone," Calles appended to his report.

Calles said rebels at Hermosillo Station were fired upon with machine guns by aviators who flew over the place. He added he was beginning his advance northward today by rail.

Meanwhile, Gen. Juan Almazan was attempting to force his way into Sonora to cut off the rebels retreating before Calles' advances.

Mexico City, April 29.—(UP)—Five persons were held today in connection with the bombing of a Mexico City-Laredo train in the state of Queretaro in which several persons were injured, press dispatches received here said.

The train left here Saturday night. It was bombed in a tunnel between the stations of Santa Elena and Chintepac.

GREAT NORTHERN CUTS TIME TO COAST JUNE 10

Chicago, April 29.—(UP)—The Empire Builder, new crack passenger train of the Great Northern railroad, will leave Chicago June 10 on a 36-hour schedule for Seattle and Portland, 5 hours less than the fastest present operating time, W. P. Kenney, vice president of the Great Northern announced today.

Kenney said eight complete trains of the new flier will cost $4,000,000. They will be equipped with sun parlor observation cars, women's dressing rooms with shower and tub baths, and a buffet kitchen and soda fountain.

Senate Lines Up 53 to 38 Against Debenture Farm Relief to Which Hoover Is Opposed

PRIVATE POLL IS TAKEN IN THE UPPER HOUSE

54 REPUBLICANS AND EIGHT DEMOCRATS AGAINST TARIFF BOUNTY

HOT DEBATE GETS UNDER WAY, DEMOCRATS SEEK TO REVERSE LINEUP

Washington, April 29.—(UP)—The senate lines up 53 to 38 against the debenture farm relief plan to which President Hoover is so strongly opposed, it was revealed in a private poll today as hot debate over the issue got under way in the upper house of congress.

The poll shows 54 republicans and 8 democrats against the tariff bounty provision; 29 democrats and 9 republicans in favor of it, three senators doubtful and one absent. It shows conclusively that while the dispute over Mr. Hoover's contest with the senate is close, it is not close enough to be doubtful.

A personal campaign among the democrats is being instituted by Senator Robinson of Arkansas and colleague Caraway, both of whom have long been champions of the debenture system. They have not given up hope that they may be able to reverse the lineup.

Seldom since the League of Nations fight in the senate has such pressure been exerted, either on the side of the White House or on the part of the opposition in the senate.

Among the Northwest republicans who have deserted the administration to favor the debenture plan are Senators Blaine and LaFollette, Wisconsin, and Frazier, North Dakota.

Senator Nye, rep., North Dakota, and Schall, rep., Minn., told the United Press they would support the administration against the debenture plan. Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minn., who was absent from the poll is ill at Johns Hopkins hospital.

Senator Norris of Nebraska has the floor today to debate his amendments proposing the debenture rate be diminished whenever overproduction exceeds 20 per cent of the average production for any one commodity over the last five years.

His amendment will be accepted, possibly without a single objection. Then the fight will start over the proposal of Watson, republican whip, to strike out the debenture plan entirely, the issue upon which the poll has been taken. The vote on Watson's motion is expected Thursday and leaders believe the bill may be passed Friday without serious conflict.

While those and other questions were occupying the senate the house ways and means committee is finishing up work in secret on the new tariff bill.

FINED $300 FOR SENDING SEX BOOK THROUGH THE MAILS

Brooklyn, April 29.—(UP)—Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett was fined $300 today by Federal Judge Warren R. Burrows for sending her pamphlet, "The Sex Side of Life," through the mails.

Judge Burrows paroled Mrs. Dennett to the custody of her attorney, Morris Ernst, until tomorrow afternoon at 2 p. m. when papers in an appeal from the conviction are to be filed.

CONGRESS TODAY

Senate
Debates debenture plan.
Judiciary committee considers Norris report advising against Secretary of Treasury Mellon continuing in office.

House
Ways and means committee continues on tariff bill.

Debate on the tariff bill, preparing to report it to the house tomorrow or Wednesday.

A strenuous contest is in prospect there too, particularly over the wool, sugar and hides schedules.

Washington, April 29.—(UP)—President Hoover's new Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, was brought under a brief fire in the senate today as both houses of congress entered their third week of the farm relief program.

The senate, resumed debate on the administration-debenture bill while the house decided that because the tariff bill will not be ready until next week, it would spend Wednesday, Thursday and Friday on four minor farm relief measures.

Hyde's part in the administration program was brought up in the senate debate when it developed the senate agriculture committee had not printed the testimony of two agriculture department experts favorable to the debenture plan so strongly denounced by the president.

Publication of the testimony was demanded by Senator Joseph T. Robinson, democratic floor leader, who said their opinions "would probably have more weight than the head of the department (Mr. Hyde) who has had very little experience in agriculture, but who has been an automobile dealer."

The two experts Eric England and O. C. Stine, were sent up to the committee by Mr. Hyde under specific orders from President Hoover a week before the president made known his opposition to the debenture plan.

Senator Norris of Nebraska pointed out that they might be embarrassed in the department should their testimony expressing their opinion about the debenture plan be made public now.

BRITTEN TAKES EXCEPTION TO GIBSON STAND

SAYS TWICE LATTER HAS PLAYED INTO HANDS OF BRITISH AND FRENCH

OBJECTS TO GIBSON'S SUGGESTION ABOUT TRAINED ARMY RESERVES

Washington, April 29.—(UP)—Chairman Fred Britten of the House Naval Affairs Committee issued a statement today declaring Ambassador Hugh Gibson had twice within ten days played directly into the hands of British and French diplomats by making disarmament proposals.

Britten said Gibson's suggestion that trained army reserves should not be included in computing the military strength of a nation was equivalent to agreeing that navy vessels in reserve but ready to fight should not be included in establishing the naval strength of a nation.

"This is the second time within ten days that Gibson has played directly into the hands of British and French diplomacy. The first was his proposal to accept the British category theory for measuring the naval strength of the five leading powers instead of by Global tonnage as was the case in the Washington conference," Britten said.

"Both of Gibson's proposals should be very effective in the coming British elections although neither has the slightest chance of acceptance by the League of Nations disarmament preparatory commission for many years to come, if at all."

Two years ago the war department effectively objected to a proposal to exclude trained army reserves from military calculations because it made a farce of a serious subject, the statement said.

Geneva, April 29.—(UP)—A reservation excepting the national guard of the United States from any disarmament project clauses limiting military effectiveness was accepted by the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations today.

The United States pointed out that the federal government has no control over state militia.

A new attempt of Russia to force the commission to agree that its disarmament convention should provide for actual reduction of forces rather than mere limitations failed today.

After strong opposition was expressed by England, France, Belgium and Chile, Dr. J. L. Landon, president of the commission, ruled that the question of reduction only can be established by a disarmament conference when it fixes the figures for each country.

12 MEN WORK 4 HOURS STEALING GREASE CUPS

Chicago, April 29.—(UP)—Twelve men worked nearly four hours in the Altemite, Inc., warehouse here today, loading grease cups in a truck, and driving off with 450 cases, valued at $60,000.

The men arrived at the warehouse about 1 a. m. and bound up three watchmen. One of the watchmen freed himself an hour after the men had left and reported the theft to police. No trace has been found of the men.

PRAYER AND BIBLE READING SUSTAIN SHIPWRECKED TARS

10 SPENT 8 DAYS OF TORTURE IN WAVE BUFFETED LIFE BOAT

YACHT AMIDA BRINGS SURVIVORS OF SCHOONER COBURN TO PORT

New York, April 29.—(UP)—Prayer and bible readings sustained ten shipwrecked sailors through eight days of torture in a wave-buffed lifeboat, it was revealed when the yacht Amida reached port with survivors of the four-masted schooner, James E. Coburn.

Eleven men abandoned the Coburn when it foundered on a voyage from Baltimore to Martinique. They were without food or water after the first four days. Three of them were white men, the rest negroes.

While smashing seas broke against the sides of their 20-foot yawl each man prayed to his own conception of a diety.

One of the white men—W. E. Miller, engineer—became temporarily mad and his hysterical mutterings added to the label of prayers. One of the negroes—W. Sargent, 60-year-old cook—died but his body was not thrown overboard because the other ten men were too weary for the exertion involved.

Captain Sydney McLaughlin of the Amida, which arrived last night, said he was 15 miles off course when he sighted the yawl. The survivors were not told that the rescue was rendered possible only by accident.

Canned meat and hardtack were put into the yawl when the schooner was abandoned. Salt water soaked the crackers, however, and despite scanty rations the meat soon was gone. Four days before they were saved there was no food or water aboard.

ERA OF 'KICKLESS' ALCOHOL NOW HERE

CALLED "ISOPROPYL" AND IS NONEXHILARATING LIQUID

Columbus, O., April 29.—(UP)—The era of "kickless" alcohol has arrived to harrass the bootlegging industry. Discovery of the nonexhilarating liquid was revealed by Prof. James F. Norris, director of the chemical research laboratories of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in address before the American Chemical society here.

"We call it isopropyl," Norris said. "It is derived from the wastes of crude oil and instead of producing a 'kick' it deadens one's senses."

Norris said chemists are experimenting to determine whether the kickless fluid can be used in industries now using denatured and grain alcohols.

"It is a substance unlike other alcohols," he said. "If it can be developed sufficiently it may enable us to get away from the class (bootleggers) that now lives by rectifying denatured alcohols. For, not only are bootleggers ignorant of any way to rectify this substance, but if they did it would fail to have the desired effect."

'MASHER BANDITS' GET $300 BOOTY

St. Paul, April 29.—(UP)—Police estimated today that "masher bandits" who prey upon spooners along shady drives, had gathered approximately $300 from victims here Sunday night and early Monday.

PARTY HEADED BY ALBERTINA ARCTIC VETERAN

ORGANIZED AFTER EXPLORERS SAID SURVIVORS COULD LIVE A YEAR

PARTY HOPES TO FIND AT LEAST TRACES OF DIRIGIBLE AND CLUES

Rome, April 29.—(UP)—A new and more thorough search for the group of six men lost after the dirigible Italia crashed in the Arctic last May 25 began today with the departure from Milan of a party headed by Ginanni Albertini, who aided in the first search.

The expedition, financed by Italian government and popular funds, was organized after Arctic explorers said they believed the men could live on the ice a year.

Albertini's party will go from Milan to Oslo, and sail from Bergen, Norway, May 15 to spend a year roving through the Arctic wastes of ice and sea in quest of the six men.

The Norwegian motor whaleboat Heriman will be used for the search. It is a vessel of 160 tons equipped with two wireless sets, both of low wave lengths. Supplies will include 20 large cases of reserve foodstuffs, 20 dogs, 10 sleds, eight rifles and 10,000 cartridges.

Although Albertini was not as optimistic as other Arctic explorers that the missing men would be found safe, he said he hoped at least to find traces of the huge envelope and some clue to what fate the men endured.

ILLCIT RURAL ROMANCE REVEALED

CONFESSIONS BY PHIL POLSTER AND MRS. JOHN POPE OF MADISON, WIS.

Madison, Wis., April 29.—(UP)—An illicit rural romance, which culminated after a year in the attempted murder of a husband who was in the way, was revealed here today with announcement of confessions from Phil Polster, 25 and Mrs. John Pope 30.

The two sweethearts according to Sherrif Harold Smedal, admitted they tried to murder Mrs. Pope's husband, and continue their secret love affair.

Polster and Mrs. Pope are in the Dane county jail and Mrs. Pope's husband is recovering from injuries sustained Saturday night when Polster admitted throwing acid in Pope's face and then beating him over the head with a tinner's mallet.

Polster said he hid in the Pope home while the couple were shopping and, following a plan pre-arranged with Mrs. Pope, attacked the husband when he entered the house late Saturday night. Blinded by the acid, Pope ran from the house, was caught, beaten and left lying in a ditch.

Pope told the sheriff he overheard one of the two say "he's done for."

Thinking their victim dead Polster and Mrs. Pope left the scene Smedal said but returned early Sunday and were arrested.

MURDER OF 3 CATHOLIC MISSIONARIES IN CHINA TO BE INVESTIGATED

Washington, April 29.—(UP)—American consular authorities in China have taken up with the Chinese nationalist government the murder of three Catholic missionaries last week at Chenki, Hunan province, the state department announced today.

Consul General Frank P. Lockhart officially informed the department of the deaths of Fathers Walter Coveyou of Petoskey, Mich., Clement Seybold, Dunkirk, N. Y., and Godfrey Holben of Baltimore.

PACKET OF 100 DOLLAR BILLS IS KICKED ABOUT

New York, April 29.—(UP)—A packet of 100 dollar bills, which had been kicked, stepped on or pushed aside by persons in the Park Row noonday rush of Saturday, was at the Oak street police station today, awaiting a claimant. The packet was found by Lillian Miller.

Britten said Gibson's suggestion that trained army reserves should not be included in computing the military strength of a nation was equivalent to agreeing that navy vessels in reserve but ready to fight should not be included in establishing the naval strength of a nation.

"This is the second time within ten days that Gibson has played directly into the hands of British and French diplomacy. The first was his proposal to accept the British category theory for measuring the naval strength of the five leading powers instead of by Global tonnage as was the case in the Washington conference," Britten said.

"Both of Gibson's proposals should be very effective in the coming British elections although neither has the slightest chance of acceptance by the League of Nations disarmament preparatory commission for many years to come, if at all.

Two years ago the war department effectively objected to a proposal to exclude trained army reserves from military calculations because it made a farce of a serious subject, the statement said.

Geneva, April 29.—(UP)—A reservation excepting the national guard of the United States from any disarmament project clauses limiting military effectiveness was accepted by the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations today.

The United States pointed out that the federal government has no control over state militia.

A new attempt of Russia to force the commission to agree that its disarmament convention should provide for actual reduction of forces rather than mere limitations failed today.

After strong opposition was expressed by England, France, Belgium and Chile, Dr. J. London, president of the commission, ruled that the question of reduction only can be established by a disarmament conference when it fixes the figures for each country.

12 MEN WORK 4 HOURS STEALING GREASE CUPS

Chicago, April 29.—(UP)—Twelve men worked nearly four hours in the Alemite, Inc., warehouse here today, loading grease cups in a truck, and driving off with 450 cases, valued at $60,000.

The men arrived at the warehouse about 1 a. m. and bound up three watchmen. One of the watchmen freed himself an hour after the men had left and reported the theft to police. No trace has been found of the men.

PRAYER AND BIBLE READING SUSTAIN SHIPWRECKED TARS

10 SPENT 8 DAYS OF TORTURE IN WAVE BUFFETED LIFE BOAT

YACHT AMIDA BRINGS SURVIVORS OF SCHOONER COBURN TO PORT

New York, April 29.—(UP)—Prayer and bible readings sustained ten shipwrecked sailors through eight days of torture in a wave-buffed lifeboat, it was revealed when the yacht Amida reached port with survivors of the four-masted schooner, James E. Coburn.

Eleven men abandoned the Coburn when it foundered on a voyage from Baltimore to Martinique. They were without food or water after the first four days. Three of them were white men, the rest negroes.

While smashing seas broke against the sides of their 20-foot yawl each man prayed to his own conception of a deity.

One of the white men—W. E. Milliken, engineer—became temporarily mad and his hysterical mutterings added to the babel of prayers. One of the negroes—W. Sargent, 60-year-old cook—died but his body was not thrown overboard because the other ten men were too weary for the exertion involved.

Captain Sydney McLaughlin of the Amida, which arrived last night, said he was 15 miles off course when he sighted the yawl. The survivors were not told that the rescue was rendered possible only by accident.

Canned meat and hardtack were put into the yawl when the schooner was abandoned. Salt water soaked the crackers, however, and despite scanty rations the men soon were gone. Four days before they were saved there was no food or water aboard.

ERA OF 'KICKLESS' ALCOHOL NOW HERE

CALLED "ISOPROPYL" AND IS NONEXHILARATING LIQUID

Columbus, O., April 29.—(UP)—The era of "kickless" alcohol has arrived to harass the bootlegging industry. Discovery of the nonexhilarating liquid was revealed by Prof. James F. Norris, director of the chemical research laboratories of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in address before the American Chemical society here.

"We call it Isopropyl," Norris said. "It is derived from the wastes of crude oil and instead of producing a 'kick' it deadens one's senses."

Norris said chemists are experimenting to determine whether the kickless fluid can be used in industries now using denatured and grain alcohols.

"It is a substance unlike other alcohols," he said. "If it can be developed sufficiently it may enable us to get away from the class (bootleggers) that now lives by rectifying denatured alcohols. For, not only are bootleggers ignorant of any way to rectify this substance, but if they did it would fail to have the desired effect."

'MASHER BANDITS' GET $300 BOOTY

St. Paul, April 29.—(UP)—Police estimated today that "masher bandits" who prey upon spooners along shady drives, had gathered approximately $300 from victims here Sunday night and early Monday.

PARTY HEADED BY ALBERTINA ARCTIC VETERAN

ORGANIZED AFTER EXPLORES SAID SURVIVORS COULD LIVE A YEAR

PARTY HOPES TO FIND AT LEAST TRACES OF DIRIGIBLE AND CLUES

Rome, April 29.—(UP)—A new and more thorough search for the group of six men lost after the dirigible Italia crashed in the Arctic last May 25 began today with the departure from Milan of a party headed by Ginnanti Albertini, who aided in the first search.

The expedition, financed by Italian government and popular funds, was organized after Arctic explorers said they believed the men could live on the ice a year.

Albertini's party will go from Milan to Oslo, and sail from Bergen, Norway, May 15 to spend a year roving through the Arctic wastes of ice and sea in quest of the six men.

The Norwegian motor whaleboat Heriman will be used for the search. It is a vessel of 160 tons equipped with two wireless sets, both of low wave lengths. Supplies will include 20 large cases of reserve foodstuffs, 20 dogs, 10 sleds, eight rifles and 10,000 cartridges.

Although Albertini was not as optimistic as other Arctic explorers that the missing men would be found safe, he said he hoped at least to find traces of the huge envelope and some clue to what fate the men endured.

ILLCIT RURAL ROMANCE REVEALED

CONFESSIONS BY PHIL POLSTER AND MRS. JOHN POPE OF MADISON, WIS.

Madison, Wis., April 29.—(UP)—An illicit rural romance, which culminated after a year in the attempted murder of a husband who was in the way, was revealed here today with announcement of confessions from Phil Polster, 25 and Mrs. John Pope 30.

The two sweethearts according to Sheriff Harold Smedal, admitted they tried to murder Mrs. Pope's husband, and continue their secret love affair. Polster and Mrs. Pope are in the Dane county jail and Mrs. Pope's husband is recovering from injuries sustained Saturday night when Polster admitted throwing acid in Pope's face and then beating him over the head with a tinner's mallet.

Polster said he hid in the Pope home while the couple were shopping and, following a plan pre-arranged with Mrs. Pope, attacked the husband when he entered the house late Saturday night. Blinded by the acid, Pope ran from the house, was caught, beaten and left lying in a ditch.

Pope told the sheriff he overheard one of the two say "he's done for." Thinking their victim dead Polster and Mrs. Pope left the scene Smedal said but returned early Sunday and were arrested.

MURDER OF 3 CATHOLIC MISSIONARIES IN CHINA TO BE INVESTIGATED

Washington, April 29.—(UP)—American consular authorities in China have taken up with the Chinese nationalist government the murder of three Catholic missionaries last week at Chenki, Hunan province, the state department announced today.

Consul General Frank P. Lockhart officially informed the department of the deaths of Fathers Walter Coveyou of Petoskey, Mich., Clement Seybold, Dunkirk, N. Y., and Godfrey Holbela of Baltimore.

PACKET OF 100 DOLLAR BILLS IS KICKED ABOUT

New York, April 29.—(UP)—A packet of 100 dollar bills, which had been kicked, stepped on or pushed aside by persons in the Park Row noonday rush of Saturday, was at the Oak street police station today, awaiting a claimant. The packet was found by Lillian Miller.

25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

April 27, 1904

Another big fire broke out in Brainerd last evening with a loss of approximately $67,000. The Hartley block—one of the best in the city—was destroyed. Those who sustained losses in the fire are Drs. Groves and Nicholson, Olaf Skauge, A. E. Moberg, Slipp Brothers, Charles Edman, C. H. Kylio, A. R. Faust, A. G. Lagerquist, M. K. Swartz, J. F. Hawkins, J. F. Murphy & Co., R. F. Walter, C. L. Burnett and George Allen. The latter was completely burned out. A. E. Moberg was the heaviest loser outside of those who owned the building.

Dr. J. L. Frederick and C. C. Kyle left for St. Paul this afternoon.

The fire department was very busy yesterday answering alarm calls in various sections of the city. They had answered four or five calls before the fire alarm was turned in on the Hartley block fire. This morning the department was called to the home of Roy Warner. The fire caught in the attic and the house was badly damaged. It was then called to St. Paul's church, and arrived just in time to prevent a serious conflagration.

Fortunately there were few injuries in the fire last evening, although there were one or two close calls. John Hessel, Jr., was holding a nozzle in the Slipp building when a barrel of oil exploded and he was thrown some 20 feet, but escaped with slight injuries. Roy Hall was slightly injured also. A. G. Lagerquist, the tailor lost all his effects in the fire, and also had $120 in a drawer. Fortunately the money was found this morning. It had been under a pile of bricks and the fire did not get at it.

Mrs. Andrew Peterson and Mrs. Arthur Peterson visited Mrs. G. F. Edquist Monday afternoon.

The charivari dance of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schultz was held at the town hall Wednesday evening. Last week a large number of friends gathered to shower them with gifts. They received many beautiful presents.

Having rented their farm to Paul Fortune, Mr. and Mrs. Edquist are busy with preparations for the auction sale they will hold April 26. This summer, they expect to go for a trip to North Dakota and California, where they have children living.

Emil Johnson and family of Irondale were callers in the neighborhood Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kunde and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kunde visited at Clarence Norgard's Sunday.

Among the Nokay Lakers working at the mines are Clarence Norgard, John Nelson, Charles Ramsdell, Bert and Martin Elde.

With the tightening up of law enforcement throughout the nation, we wonder if it would be too much to expect efficiency of our local peace officers. The public dances would be a good place to begin. The law requires that one pay a sheriff's deputy to maintain order at a dance. Surely he has authority enough to stop drinking and brawling, even though he overlook the use of profane and obscene language.

John Nelson and sons, G. F. Edquist, Fred Bock, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Norgard and baby, were some of the Brainerd visitors Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Allston and children and Samuel Allston visited at Martin Olson's Sunday afternoon.

Charles Isle and Charles Clippene have been hauling gravel on the roads this week. The unusually heavy traffic, diverted to the north road because of the closing of the "Oak street" road, made repairs imperative.

WEST OAK LAWN

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Congdon and daughter Bernice were Brainerd shoppers Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Strobel and family and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Andrews and family were dinner guests at the Edw. Tutch home near Merrifield.

Remember the basket social this Friday evening. A nice program has been arranged for the evening. Everybody welcome. Ten cents admission will be charged for the program. There will be plate lunch for those who do not wish to bring baskets.

The lower grades are enjoying the three day vacation while the other grades are taking examinations.

The Home Hygiene class are enjoying their lessons greatly, thanks to Miss Waltz, county nurse.

We are in hopes to have a pre-school clinic in the three schools in Oak Lawn township. These clinics will be organized all over the county but these things all take time.

The sympathy of the community goes out to George McKay and family in the loss of his mother who passed away at her home at Preston, Minn., at the ripe old age of 94 years. It is wonderful to think of one living to that age with a strong keen mind such as she was blessed with.

Remember Sunday school this Sunday, April 28. Everybody welcome. Let's all go and break last year's record.

Official German War Film Gives Yanks Credit for Fatherland Defeat

America is given full credit for the defeat of the German Army in the World War, according to the official war picture released in this country by Paramount entitled, "Behind the German Lines." These pictures are the official films taken by the German government and give an unbiased account of what took place "Behind the German Lines." UFA, the leading motion picture concern of Germany, assembled the film which will be shown at the Lyceum tonight and Tuesday, matinee and night.

Numerous other highly interesting events are shown. Every battle front is covered and the pictures show what took place from the very first day of the war to the last. Many notable figures in World War history, including the Kaiser, Hindenburg (who is seen mapping out a campaign); Wilson, Pershing and others appear.

Sen. Watson of Indiana, republican leader, interrupted and offered to allow a vote, but Hefflin, desiring to continue his speech, refused, saying "The senators have not yet realized how important this question is."

"If you continue to obstruct my speeches," he told the senate, "there will be a reaction and the day is coming when no Catholic will be able to talk in a Protestant community."

NOTICE OF TRAFFIC RESTRICTION

Traffic restriction of March 18, 1929 and of April 5, 1929, will be lifted Tuesday, April 30 on:

Are You Run Down, Weak, Nervous?

To have plenty of firm flesh and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two-year old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it. If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just take a teaspoonful of Tanlac before meals.

Mr. Edward D. Lavan, of 300 E. Broadway, Waukesha, Wis., says: "My stomach was always out of order, I was nervous and had lost considerable weight. Tanlac surely put me in good condition. Now I can eat anything and have gained 38 lbs."

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation—gas, pains, nausea, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist. ## BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

April 27, 1904

Another big fire broke out in Brainerd last evening with a loss of approximately $67,000. The Hartley block—one of the best in the city—was destroyed. Those who sustained losses in the fire are Drs. Groves and Nicholson, Olaf Skauge, A. E. Moberg, Slipp Brothers, Charles Edman, C. H. Kylo, A. R. Faust, A. G. Lagerquist, M. K. Swartz, J. F. Hawkins, J. F. Murphy & Co., R. F. Walter, C. L. Burnett and George Allen. The latter was completely burned out. A. E. Moberg was the heaviest loser outside of those who owned the building.

Dr. J. L. Frederick and C. C. Kyle left for St. Paul this afternoon.

The fire department was very busy yesterday answering alarm calls in various sections of the city. They had answered four or five calls before the fire alarm was turned in on the Hartley block fire. This morning the department was called to the home of Roy Warner. The fire caught in the attic and the house was badly damaged. It was then called to St. Paul's church, and arrived just in time to prevent a serious conflagration.

Fortunately there were few injuries in the fire last evening, although there were one or two close calls. John Hessel, Jr., was holding a nozzle in the Slipp building when a barrel of oil exploded and he was thrown some 20 feet, but escaped with slight injuries. Roy Hall was slightly injured also. A. G. Lagerquist, the tailor lost all his effects in the fire, and also had $120 in a drawer. Fortunately the money was found this morning. It had been under a pile of bricks and the fire did not get at it.

GREATER MINNESOTA WEEK

SUNDAY, May 5, will mark the opening of "Greater Minnesota Week," when communities of the state will co-operate in raising $100,000 to be spent by the Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota Association in advertising Minnesota's agricultural and recreational opportunities to the world.

In a letter, Roy E. Dunn, Pelican Rapids, president of the association, states: "The program of the Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota Association is the greatest ever undertaken to sell our state to the world. Our efforts will be divided equally between attracting new citizens and tourists. Preparation for the 1929 program has been under way for more than a year and there is every promise of exceptional results from our efforts as the first advertising for 1929 has brought excellent returns. In these returns have been several hundred inquiries concerning farms. In our new offices we are splendidly equipped to carry on this big program that should bring us many new settlers and summer visitors. The success of the campaign depends upon the support of the individual towns and I hope that every community will do its share. We must all do our parts if we are to successfully cope with the competition of other states and keep Minnesota moving forward."

The association is preparing a beautifully illustrated 16 page agricultural folder, and the advantages of Minnesota as a place in which to live will be set forth at length.

In the compilation of this new book the association has had the advice and assistance of agricultural and advertising experts with the result that it will be one of the most attractive booklets put out by any state. It will be used in the advertising and publicity campaign which the Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota Association expects to push to all corners of the nation during 1929 with a view of bringing new citizens.

In addition to the many illustrations of Minnesota farms which the new book will carry, information will also be given concerning marketing, educational facilities, crops and other data of interest to the prospective settler.

Inasmuch as half of the funds of the association are to be devoted to promoting agricultural development a campaign of display and classified advertising in farm magazines and newspapers of the central part of the United States will be carried on. Through billboard advertising which will be placed at boundary lines on every state highway, tourists entering the state will be impressed that Minnesota is a great agricultural region. Motion pictures showing Minnesota's agricultural advantages will also be used and agricultural inquiries will be solicited in the tourist advertising as well as in the exclusive farm campaign.

Roy E. Dunn says concerning the new booklet: "It will be the most important of the mailing pieces to be used by the association in following up responses to the agricultural advertising. It will be a work of art; an article to be kept by those receiving it, renewing interest in Minnesota every time anyone looks at it. It should be a permanent and effective piece of literature."

FACTORS OF SOCIAL WORK

The newly appointed Chairman of the State Board of Control, Mrs. Blanche LaDu, will discuss the state's interest in children's preventive and protective work at the one-day Regional Conference of Social Work to be held on June 12, at Cloquet.

There could be no better equipped or experienced person for directing this discussion than Mrs. LaDu. She has for eight years been a member of the State Board of Control, and prior to this was engaged in the practice of law. She is a mother, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, and for many years has been interested in the state children's welfare program. Her approach will be primarily that of an attorney in the discussion of delinquency problems, their detection and prevention in local communities; and once detected, how they are handled under our present methods of treatment. The protective work of the state, the commitment of delinquents to state institutions, and their program of rehabilitation will also be discussed. Mrs. LaDu is in a position to give a clear-cut, concise, and accurate picture of the state's responsibility in such problems.

Mrs. LaDu's address is only one of several which will be presented at the spring conference of social work sponsored by the State Board of Control, the General Extension Division of the University of Minnesota, and the Minnesota State Conference of Social Work.

Programs to be presented at the regional conferences of social work sponsored jointly by the University of Minnesota General Extension Division, the State Conference of Social Work and the State Board of Control are rapidly taking shape, according to Mrs. Monica K. Doyle, Executive Secretary of the State Conference of Social Work, who has just been at Cloquet where one of the conferences is to be held on June 12.

Places and dates of conferences this year are Redwood Falls, May 10; Winona, May 23; Breckenridge, May 17; and Cloquet, June 12.

"I have been meeting with the local committees of all of the conferences," reports Mrs. Doyle, "and with their enthusiasm and the program of speakers we are securing, the indications are for the best conferences in the history of the state."

Assisting Mrs. Doyle in the organization and supervision of the conferences are Miss Inez Patterson, Miss Jean Johnson, Miss Lucile Joscelyn and Miss Grace Guilford of the Children's Bureau of the State Board of Control.

CLEANUP AND PAINTUP WEEK

MAYOR FRANK E. LITTLE has proclaimed cleanup and paintup week and Brainerd is complying. It is remarkable what a wonderful effect is produced when one cleans up house and yard and applies paint where needed.

A well kept property and a tidy neighborhood are always more attractive than a group of houses "run down at the heel."

While we are cleaning up it may not be out of the way to say something about the waste paper nuisance in Brainerd. Some people are in the habit of putting paper waste out of doors. If the paper stayed where it was put it would not cause so much trouble, but a strong wind like that of Sunday picks up the waste and scatters it about the streets and into basement areas.

A town as a whole can be kept as tidy as a housewife keeps her kitchen. Let us be neat and tidy at the source.

Yesterday's Hero—Jess Petty, Pittsburgh pitcher, who held the St. Louis Cardinals to four hits and enabled the Pirates to gain their fourth victory of the season, 6 to 2, at St. Louis.

The Chicago Cubs dropped a hard hitting game at Cincinnati, 17 to 12, both teams staving a parade of pitchers in a futile effort to check the rain of base hits.

The New York Giants won what was to have been the first game of a double header at New York, from the Philadelphia Phillies, 8 to 2, and rain forced the cancellation of the second. Whitney hit a home run in the ninth with one man on base to save the Phils from a shutout.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and the Boston Braves completed six innings at the Brooklyn park before rain halted the game with Boston leading, 5 to 2.

The Boston Red Sox lost the first professional baseball game ever played on a Sunday in Boston, 7 to 3, to the Philadelphia Athletics.

Babe Ruth hit his second home run of the season at Washington where the New York Yankees defeated the Senators 7 to 2.

Grady Adkins, pitching a four hit game for the Chicago White Sox enabled his teammates to defeat Cleveland, 2 to 1, at Chicago.

Detroit took a two run lead in the first inning of the game with St. Louis at Detroit but the Browns came back to win the decision, 6 to 3.

JARK MAKES WORLD RECORD IN THROWING DISCUS AT DRAKE

Des Moines, Ia., April 29.—(UP)—One new world's record was written into the books today as the result of performances turned in by athletes, who competed in the annual Drake relays.

Carl Jark, Army, established the world mark by throwing the discus 158 feet, 3 inches, to better the old record held by Bud Houser, Southern California.

George Ottensmeyer, Minnesota, set a new meet pole vault mark of 13 feet, 4 1/2 inches, bettering the old mark of 13 feet, held by McKowan, Kansas State Teachers.

SPORTS ARENA AT CHICAGO IS PROSPERING

Chicago, April 29.—(UP)—Promoter Paddy Harmon, who convinced the big money men that the largest indoor sports arena in the country could prosper in Chicago today was prepared to submit figures to prove that his claims were not idle dreams.

He was ready to appear before the board of directors of the new Chicago Stadium with the statement of the first month of business in the new building and his figures showed that 275,937 persons have paid slightly more than $450,000 to see stadium attractions.

The profit was slightly more than $80,000, after costs of promotion and advertising for the summer season had been taken out of the first month's business.

JONES, ALDERMAN-MAGHAN TO CLASH

CLOSE GAME EXPECTED WHEN TEAMS MEET TONIGHT A KITTENBALL

Tonight the Alderman-Maghan diamondball team will meet the Paul M. Jones team at the Water Tower grounds. The game will begin at 6:15 o'clock. A close game is expected as a defeat for either team may mean their elimination from the playoff at the end of the season.

The Paul M. Jones' lineup will include: c., Rafodil; p., Foster; 1st, Gabion; rrs., Coyne; 2b., Hanson; 3b., Lyons; 4b., Hantala; lf., Erickson; cf., Carlson; rf., Fuller. The probable Alderman-Maghan lineup will be: c., Trask; p., Waldman; 1st, Hanson; rrs., Rardin; 2b., Hagberg; 3b., Orth; 3b., Bergstrand; lf., Pratt; cf., Spandel; rf., Cameron.

After last week's play the Sinclair Oil Co. still remains on the top of the heap and the Service Motor Co., who were tied with the Oilers for first place are now in second place as a result of their defeat by the Sinclair Oilers. The Paul M. Jones team gained another notch and now are in third place. Bye Clothing Co. holds the fourth position and the Northern Pacific Ry. is in fifth place. The standing of all the teams in league to date is as follows:

Sinclair Oil Co.	5	0	0
Service Motor Co.	3	1	1
Paul M. Jones	2	1	0
Bye Clothing Co.	1	1	1
Northern Pacific Ry.	2	3	0

Products Preferred

You have hundreds of products to choose from when you buy fuel and oil. Which products do you prefer? The products that give you the best service in your car.

You don't buy oil and fuel by tasting, smelling, feeling, or seeing them! They must earn your preference. They have to prove themselves by performance.

Polarine is a product preferred by millions. In cities, on farms, in small towns—everywhere in the Middle West—Polarine is known and depended upon. Hundreds of thousands of people have used it for years and years.

By proved performance Polarine has earned its popularity. More motorists are demanding Polarine every year because they find it gives superior lubrication service in their cars.

Polarine has an extraordinary service record behind it.

Imagine for a moment that you are looking at a large map of the Middle West showing the thousands of highways criss-crossing each of the ten states—Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kansas, Missouri, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Every day along the highways of all these states a multitude of motorists are driving cars lubricated with Polarine. Day after day, year after year, Polarine has been lubricating cars on these highways—giving satisfactory service.

Polarine has given billions of miles of satisfactory service! It has earned the preference of the people of the Middle West!

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has built its reputation for dependability on products like Polarine that earn your preference by performance.

GREATER MINNESOTA WEEK

SUNDAY, May 5, will mark the opening of "Greater Minnesota Week," when communities of the state will co-operate in raising $100,000 to be spent by the Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota Association in advertising Minnesota's agricultural and recreational opportunities to the world.

In a letter, Roy E. Dunn, Pelican Rapids, president of the association, states: "The program of the Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota Association is the greatest ever undertaken to sell our state to the world. Our efforts will be divided equally between attracting new citizens and tourists. Preparation for the 1929 program has been under way for more than a year and there is every promise of exceptional results from our efforts as the first advertising for 1929 has brought excellent returns. In these returns have been several hundred inquiries concerning farms. In our new offices we are splendidly equipped to carry on this big program that should bring us many new settlers and summer visitors. The success of the campaign depends upon the support of the individual towns and I hope that every community will do its share. We must all do our parts if we are to successfully cope with the competition of other states and keep Minnesota moving forward."

The association is preparing a beautifully illustrated 16 page agricultural folder, and the advantages of Minnesota as a place in which to live will be set forth at length.

In the compilation of this new book the association has had the advice and assistance of agricultural and advertising experts with the result that it will be one of the most attractive booklets put out by any state. It will be used in the advertising and publicity campaign which the Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota Association expects to push to all corners of the nation during 1929 with a view of bringing new citizens.

In addition to the many illustrations of Minnesota farms which the new book will carry, information will also be given concerning marketing, educational facilities, crops and other data of interest to the prospective settler.

Inasmuch as half of the funds of the association are to be devoted to promoting agricultural development a campaign of display and classified advertising in farm magazines and newspapers of the central part of the United States will be carried on. Through billboard advertising which will be placed at boundary lines on every state highway, tourists entering the state will be impressed that Minnesota is a great agricultural region. Motion pictures showing Minnesota's agricultural advantages will also be used and agricultural inquiries will be solicited in the tourist advertising as well as in the exclusive farm campaign.

Roy E. Dunn says concerning the new booklet: "It will be the most important of the mailing pieces to be used by the association in following up responses to the agricultural advertising. It will be a work of art; an article to be kept by those receiving it, renewing interest in Minnesota every time anyone looks at it. It should be a permanent and effective piece of literature."

FACTORS OF SOCIAL WORK

THE newly appointed Chairman of the State Board of Control, Mrs. Blanche LaDu, will discuss the state's interest in children's preventive and protective work at the one-day Regional Conference of Social Work to be held on June 12, at Cloquet.

There could be no better equipped or experienced person for directing this discussion than Mrs. LaDu. She has for eight years been a member of the State Board of Control, and prior to this was engaged in the practice of law. She is a mother, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, and for many years has been interested in the state children's welfare program. Her approach will be primarily that of an attorney in the discussion of delinquency problems, their detection and prevention in local communities; and once detected, how they are handled under our present methods of treatment. The protective work of the state, the commitment of delinquents to state institutions, and their program of rehabilitation will also be discussed. Mrs. LaDu is in a position to give a clear-cut, concise, and accurate picture of the state's responsibility in such problems.

Mrs. LaDu's address is only one of several which will be presented at the spring conference of social work sponsored by the State Board of Control, the General Extension Division of the University of Minnesota, and the Minnesota State Conference of Social Work.

Programs to be presented at the regional conferences of social work sponsored jointly by the University of Minnesota General Extension Division, the State Conference of Social Work and the State Board of Control are rapidly taking shape, according to Mrs. Monica K. Doyle, Executive Secretary of the State Conference of Social Work, who has just been at Cloquet where one of the conferences is to be held on June 12.

Places and dates of conferences this year are Redwood Falls, May 10; Winona, May 23; Breckenridge, May 17; and Cloquet, June 12.

"I have been meeting with the local committees of all of the conferences," reports Mrs. Doyle, "and with their enthusiasm and the program of speakers we are securing, the indications are for the best conferences in the history of the state."

Assisting Mrs. Doyle in the organization and supervision of the conferences are Miss Inez Patterson, Miss Jean Johnson, Miss Lucile Joselyn and Miss Grace Guilford of the Children's Bureau of the State Board of Control.

CLEANUP AND PAINTUP WEEK

MAYOR FRANK E. LITTLE has proclaimed cleanup and paintup week and Brainerd is complying. It is remarkable what a wonderful effect is produced when one cleans up house and yard and applies paint where needed.

A well kept property and a tidy neighborhood are always more attractive than a group of houses "run down at the heel."

While we are cleaning up it may not be out of the way to say something about the waste paper nuisance in Brainerd. Some people are in the habit of putting paper waste out of doors. If the paper stayed where it was put it would not cause so much trouble, but a strong wind like that of Sunday picks up the waste and scatters it about the streets and into basement areas.

A town as a whole can be kept as tidy as a housewife keeps her kitchen. Let us be neat and tidy at the source.

WISCONSIN, MICHIGAN LEAD BIG 10 PLAY

MINNESOTA HAS PERCENTAGE .333 IN CELLAR

INDIANA AND PURDUE STAND THIRD AND FOURTH NEXT IN ORDER

ILLINOIS AND IOWA ARE TIED WITH POINTS EACH TO THEIR CREDIT

Chicago, April 29—(UP)—Wisconsin and Michigan were leading the standings as Big Ten baseball teams prepared to engage in seven games this week.

The Badgers and Wolverines each have won games, while losing none. Indiana and Purdue were next in order with three won and one lost.

This week's schedule follows:
Monday: Iowa at Illinois; Wisconsin at Chicago. Wednesday: Purdue at Northwestern. Saturday: Wisconsin at Illinois; Northwestern at Iowa; Purdue at Indiana; Ohio State at Chicago.

Standings:	W	L	Pct.
Wisconsin	1	0	1.000
Michigan	2	0	1.000
Indiana	3	1	.750
Purdue	3	1	.750
Illinois	2	2	.500
Iowa	1	1	.500
Northwestern	2	3	.400

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero—Jess Petty, Pittsburgh pitcher, who held the St. Louis Cardinals to four hits and enabled the Pirates to gain their fourth victory of the season, 6 to 2, at St. Louis.

The Chicago Cubs dropped a hard hitting game at Cincinnati, 17 to 12, both teams staging a parade of pitchers in a futile effort to check the rain of base hits.

The New York Giants won what was to have been the first game of a double header at New York, from the Philadelphia Phillies, 8 to 2, and rain forced the cancellation of the second. Whitney hit a home run in the ninth with one man on base to save the Phils from a shutout.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and the Boston Braves completed six innings at the Brooklyn park before rain halted the game with Boston leading, 5 to 2.

The Boston Red Sox lost the first professional baseball game ever played on a Sunday in Boston, 7 to 3, to the Philadelphia Athletics.

Babe Ruth hit his second home run of the season at Washington where the New York Yankees defeated the Senators 7 to 2.

Grady Adkins, pitching a four hit game for the Chicago White Sox enabled his teammates to defeat Cleveland, 2 to 1, at Chicago.

Detroit took a two run lead in the first inning of the game with St. Louis at Detroit but the Browns came back to win the decision, 6 to 3.

JARK MAKES WORLD RECORD IN THROWING DISCUS AT DRAKE

Des Moines, Ia., April 29.—(UP)—One new world's record was written into the books today as the result of performances turned in by athletes, who competed in the annual Drake relays.

Carl Jark, Army, established the world mark by throwing the discus 158 feet, 3 inches, to better the old record held by Bud Houser, Southern California.

George Omeress, Minnesota, set a new meet pole vault mark of 13 feet, 4 1/2 inches, bettering the old mark of 13 feet, held by McKowan, Kansas State Teachers.

JONES, ALDERMAN-MAGHAN TO CLASH

CLOSE GAME EXPECTED WHEN TEAMS MEET TONIGHT A KITTENBALL

Tonight the Alderman-Maghan diamondball team will meet the Paul M. Jones team at the Water Tower grounds. The game will begin at 6:15 o'clock. A close game is expected as a defeat for either team may mean their elimination from the playoff at the end of the season.

The Paul M. Jones' lineup will include: c., Rafodil; p., Foster; 1st, Gabioli; rrs., Coyne; 2b., Hanson; 3b., Lyons; 3b., Haultala; lf., Erickson; cf., Carlson; rf., Fuller. The probable Alderman-Maghan lineup will be: c., Trask; p., Waldman; 1st, Hanson; rrs., Rardin; 2b., Hagberg; 3b., Orth; 3m., Bergstrand; lf., Pratt; cf., Spandel; rf., Cameron.

After last week's play the Sinclair Oil Co. still remains on the top of the heap and the Service Motor Co., who were tied with the Oilers for first place are now in second place as a result of their defeat by the Sinclair Oils. The Paul M. Jones team gained another notch and now are in third place. Bye Clothing Co. holds the fourth position and the Northern Pacific Ry. is in fifth place. The standing of all the teams in league to date is as follows:

Sinclair Oil Co.	5	0	0
Service Motor Co.	3	1	1
Paul M. Jones	2	1	0
Bye Clothing Co.	1	1	1
Northern Pacific Ry.	2	3	0
Alderman-Maghan Co.	1	2	0
Nash-Finch Co.	1	3	0

Products Preferred

You have hundreds of products to choose from when you buy fuel and oil. Which products do you prefer? The products that give you the best service in your car.

You don't buy oil and fuel by tasting, smelling, feeling, or seeing them! They must earn your preference. They have to prove themselves by performance.

Polarine is a product preferred by millions. In cities, on farms, in small towns—everywhere in the Middle West—Polarine is known and depended upon. Hundreds of thousands of people have used it for years and years.

By proved performance Polarine has earned its popularity. More motorists are demanding Polarine every year because they find it gives superior lubrication service in their cars.

Polarine has an extraordinary service record behind it.

Imagine for a moment that you are looking at a large map of the Middle West showing the thousands of highways criss-crossing each of the ten states—Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kansas, Missouri, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Every day along the highways of all these states a multitude of motorists are driving cars lubricated with Polarine. Day after day, year after year, Polarine has been lubricating cars on these highways—giving satisfactory service.

Polarine has given billions of miles of satisfactory service! It has earned the preference of the people of the Middle West!

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has built its reputation for dependability on products like Polarine that earn your preference by performance.

You know—before you buy them—how the products of this company will work in your car. You know—before you stop—what kind of service you will receive at a Standard Oil Service Station.

The unvarying dependability of this company has received appreciation of a rather unusual sort.

DISCOVERIES IN MILLE LACS REGION

1,000 Earthen Mounds Believed to Date Back to Unrecorded
History There

HUNDREDS OF BURIAL PLOTS

Human Remains Revealed in Large
Mounds Dug Into on Shores of Mille Lacs

Milaca, Minn., April 27. — The Mille Lacs lake region, besides its attraction to fishermen and summer resorters, has another attraction not generally known but worth searching out and preserving according to the Milaca Times.

Traces of an ancient race, in the form of bones in mounds, are to be found in many places along the shores of Mille Lacs. This race appears to have preceded the Indians in the state and is believed to have been driven out by them when the redmen came. This ancient race left hundreds of mounds, some arranged in curious designs, apparently designed to perpetuate their history or some incident in their lives.

There are more than 1,000 of these mounds located generally in groups at various places around the lake, some near the shore and others back some distance on ridges or elevations.

The contour and general arrangement of the mounds show that they are artificial, and some of the larger ones that were dug into revealed human remains.

Bones in Bundles

The remains consisted in every case of four bundles of bones placed at usual intervals in a circle around the center of the mound, and a skull was placed on top of each bundle of bones.

From appearances the flesh had been removed; the bones neatly tied up in a bundle, and placed with the skull of the deceased in the mound, a custom that is unknown to any tribe of Indians in the United States. The skulls excavated indicated a being inferior to the Indians, by the sloping forehead and protruding jaws, according to those who examined the remains.

Thirty years ago J. V. Brower of St. Cloud conducted a party of naturalists to the Mille Lacs lake region, who were attracted there by hearing of the ancient mounds. They spent over a month exploring and mapping them. They also excavated some of the larger mounds and found bundles of bones and skulls neatly placed at intervals in them. Copper ornaments and other copper articles were also found, showing that the race had some way of getting hold of this mineral.

Number of Mounds Listed

The number of mounds and their location around Mille Lacs lake were catalogued by these explorers as follows:

Milmo group at Big Bay	128
Isolated mounds at Wealthwood	3
Group near Knox Point	7
Group on Mud river near Spirit lake	72
Nichols group	55
Garrison creek and Borden lake groups	74
Group at Dinwiddie bay	14
Group north of Pasqua-nim-issance creek	7
Group westward from Fenley shore	9
Wigwam bay group	64
Shore View bay group	3
Outlet bay group	41
Portage bay group	34
Group at Cerve	23
Scattered groups at Isle	109
Gim-inis-sing bay and river group	27
North Courage bay group	4
Accault bay group	6
Sunset bay group	3
Large group northeast from Milmo	208
Groups near Shakopee and Onamia lakes	180
Round lake group near Nichols	11
Farm Island lake group	30
Long lake group	16

Indian Mounds Misnomer

All these groups of mounds, and the location of mounds that have been obliterated by the white people in erecting buildings and making roads totaled 1,125, as located by this expedition. This does not represent all mounds in the Mille Lacs region, as the expedition were unable to make a thorough search of much of the adjoining territory.

It is customary to call these earthworks "Indian mounds," but the Indian tribes that frequented these regions were never known to build mounds. In fact, no Indian tribe in the United States had such a custom. The Sioux Indians that occupied the Mille Lacs region when the early explorers came to that region, and were later driven out by the Chippewas, did not build mounds, and they disposed of their dead by placing them on high platforms in the woods. The Chippewa tribes buried their dead in shallow graves just below the surface of the ground, and placed a wooden structure over the grave, in which they placed food for the spirit of the deceased. There is nothing in the traditions of the Indian tribes to show that they ever erected earthworks of any kind.

Another thing that indicates that these mounds are not the work of the Indians is from the fact that the arrangements and designs of the mounds are similar to the larger mounds that are found in eastern and southern states. It is likely the race here was a part of the mound building race that occupied a large part of the United States at one time, as shown by the various mounds, some of them of great height, that they have left in many of the states.

The erection of the hundreds of mounds around Mille Lacs lake represent an enormous amount of labor, as thousands of tons of dirt had to be carried and piled up with primitive implements.

There is also a large mound near Green lake, seven miles east of Princeton, and there were numerous small mounds around Silver lake, a body of water that once existed just east of Princeton and has been reduced now to a swamp.

By searching out and preserving these ancient earthworks at Mille Lacs lake, the region is urged to develop a feature that would be a permanent attraction once people understood the nature of these ancient mounds.

Camp Fire Girls aided by Miss Mary Tornstrom, principal of the of the Brainerd high school and Miss Marie Adair, teacher, put out a running fire in the timber near the Mississippi river early Saturday and stayed on the grounds to see that it did not spring up again until added protection was given by the forestry department.

The group was on an early morning hike down the river when the fire was noticed by them. The girls did their bit in observing American Forest Week.

Several brush fires were extinguished in the district the last week. Forest patrolmen are busy checking up on unauthorized and unattended fires. They threaten prosecutions to those burning without a permit and allowing the fires to spread.

The railroad fire patrol went on duty Friday. Permits for burning have been cut down to burning after 4 p. m. only.

Caution in setting fire is urged by District Deputy Forest Ranger E. H. Rhodes.

BOLDER TO START TERM THIS WEEK

Former Village Clerk of Ironton
Pleaded Guilty to Embezzlement Charge

GETS PRISON SENTENCE

Fails to Turn Over to Village Treasurer Sum of $3,- 296.44

H. W. Bolder, former village clerk of Ironton, who admitted in his plea of guilty to the charge of embezzling funds that he took $3296.44 from the village of Ironton funds will start serving his indeterminate sentence of "up to seven years" at Stillwater prison the latter part of this week, it was announced today at the office of Sheriff Claus Theorin.

Bolder was elected to office as clerk of Ironton on January 2, 1925 and held such office until January 1, 1929 when he was succeeded by E. J. Taleen.

Bolder told Judge B. F. Wright of Park Rapids who heard his plea and imposed that he was 45 years old, married, the father of four children and that it was the first time he had ever been brought into court.

The defendant stated that he received $150 a month and that he found it difficult to support his family on it. He stated that he owns his home in Ironton and a store building but that the store building had not been occupied for some time and that he had been unable to dispose of it.

During the year 1925 Bolder failed to turn over to the village treasurer the amount of $225 from collections received by him for water rentals, hall rentals, fines and licenses, it was revealed in examination of the defendant Saturday. The next year Bolder took $500, the year following $800 and the last year $1500, he said.

In spite of audits of the village books each year the deficits were not revealed until this year, when a special audit was made.

BOLDER TO START TERM THIS WEEK

Former Village Clerk of Ironton Pleaded Guilty to Embezzlement Charge

GETS PRISON SENTENCE

Fails to Turn Over to Village Treasurer Sum of $3,296.44

H. W. Bolder, former village clerk of Ironton, who admitted in his plea of guilty to the charge of embezzling funds that he took $3,296.44 from the village of Ironton funds will start serving his indeterminate sentence of "up to seven years" at Stillwater prison the latter part of this week, it was announced today at the office of Sheriff Claus Theorin.

Bolder was elected to office as clerk of Ironton on January 2, 1925 and held such office until January 1, 1929 when he was succeeded by E. J. Taleen.

Bolder told Judge B. F. Wright of Park Rapids who heard his plea and imposed that he was 45 years old, married, the father of four children and that it was the first time he had ever been brought into court.

The defendant stated that he received $150 a month and that he found it difficult to support his family on it. He stated that he owns his home in Ironton and a store building but that the store building had not been occupied for some time and that he had been unable to dispose of it.

During the year 1925 Bolder failed to turn over to the village treasurer the amount of $225 from collections received by him for water rentals, hall rentals, fines and licenses, it was revealed in examination of the defendant Saturday. The next year Bolder took $500, the year following $800 and the last year $1,500, he said.

In spite of audits of the village books each year the deficits were not revealed until this year, when a special audit was made.

FELL FROM MOVING CAR; BADLY BRUISED

Herbert Olson Thrown to Pavement by Force of Wind Against Car Door

Little Herbert Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Olson was badly bruised Saturday afternoon when he fell out of the car on their return to Brainerd from Little Falls.

In attempting to close the door which he thought was not securely closed, he swung it open, losing his balance and fell out. His arm was quite badly bruised and face cut, but his injuries were not thought serious.

Daphne

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

DAPHNE HAINES, seventeen and lovely, finds life intolerable because of a nagging, jealous stepmother whose main aim is to promote a courtship between her own daughter, Crystal, and wealthy, attractive Ralph McKevitt. Catching a fleeting glimpse of Daphne, the "prize" young man admires her. Mrs. Haines, fearing the rivalry of the younger girl, schemes to eliminate her from the scene. Daphne dismayed when she realizes how completely these two calculating women have her father in their power, comforts herself by spinning secret dreams of a day when someone will really love her—a man, big, powerful, handsome, like Ralph! A sordid quarrel is provoked between Haines and his wife because of the woman's reckless expenditures. Subtly Mrs. Haines draws Daphne into the brawl. Feeling the hopelessness of her situation, Daphne determines to make her own way in the world, and leaves for San Francisco.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

"I never go back!" Daphne whispered to herself that first night, as she lay wide-eyed in the dark little room she had found out on Geary Street. "Not even if I starve."

But of course she wouldn't starve, she'd find a position in the morning. Even if she had to wait a week or two weeks, there was money enough. Twenty dollars still untouched, besides a big silver dollar, and eighty-nine cents in dimes and nickels and pennies in her red leather purse. And the room rent paid for a month.

It wasn't a very nice room. She hated to think of living in it a whole month, but the landlady wouldn't let it by the week, and she couldn't find anything else so cheap.

Tomorrow she would leave the window wide open all day—that would help. The room smelled sort of queer now. The whole house smelled queer. The smell of cabbage and stale coffee and damp... the musty damp unaired blankets, unwashed clothes...

But it was a respectable, quiet location. Daphne knew that. It was on the Geary Street car line, an old two-story frame house, thirty for paint. There were lace curtains in the front windows, and a glass sign hanging by a brass chain. "Madame Hinkle, Gowns." And stuck in the glass some colored pictures from a fashion book, and another sign on cardboard, "Room to Rent."

Daphne was glad to find it. She had ridden out on the cars with her suitcase, hoping to find a room out there because one of her school teachers lived in that location with her mother, and Daphne had once visited her in vacation time. It was the only street car line she knew.

"A girl can't be too careful in the city," the prim little teacher had said meaningly.

Well, Daphne was going to be careful. But a little tingle of excitement cheered her as she lay there in the dark, all alone, and no one to care.

The days that seemed so long as she sat on a bench in the typewriter agency where they got girls positions free, were going much too fast. A week, two weeks, almost three—and no job.

"Tomorrow—surely I'll get something tomorrow!" But the days were as like as peas in a pod. The same ads in the papers:

"Steno. Asst. Bkpr. Experienced... Capable steno. References required..."

"Lady for pleasant, dignified sales position. Small investment." She answered them all at first, and later, when the red purse was flatter and every postage stamp counted, only the more likely ones. There were few answers, and they led to nothing. Everyone wanted an experienced girl. One with references. How are you going to get experience and references if no one will give you a chance?

The girls who sat with her in the employment agencies seemed to know each other. They gathered together in the groups, laughing and chatting intimately.

What? You here too? That's a cute hat, where did you get it? There's a swell sale over at the Emporium, the darlingest georgette step-ins for only—Well, for heaven's sake, if she isn't sending that lemon out ahead of me! You can't trust that woman; she's got her pets, and nobody else gets a thing. Come on, let's go over to the Remington.

"Oh, that's just as bad. Listen, I heard of a swell place—you pay more, but they've got some keen positions."

Nobody spoke to Daphne. They looked at her coldly, ignored her timid advances. She was an outsider. She didn't belong.

She tried other agencies, too.

Daphne's money was rapidly dwindling—.

"Almost—very nearly eighteen. I know I can do the work. I haven't had any experience, but I'm really fast and accurate. In school my shorthand teachers said..."

But they never waited to hear what her teacher said. "Well, come in again. I only need experienced girls today." "Up and down. Up and down. Market Street to Howard Street, to California, to McAlister, to Van Ness, to the Embarcadero. She walked everywhere now to save carfare. Her black hair clung to her damp forehead, there were dark circles of fatigue under her gray eyes. Her childish mouth drooped with weariness.

It was always the same. "Yes, I wanted a young girl but... well, I don't think you'll do. I wanted someone a little older. Nobody would give her a chance. That frail, delicate look... her too slender hands... her timid, childish voice... the growing fear of what would happen when the last of the money was gone... Daphne might have been the best stenographer in the city but she didn't look the part. She looked incompetent, and no one wants an incompetent, helpless girl in an office.

"I'm sorry," the women would add, seeing her distress as they turned her away. "You might drop in again, a little later," the men said. More regretfully, more slowly than the women. Some of them jingled a hand in a pocket thoughtfully. To hand... a pretty little thing... appleblossom skin, long curling lashes... but the wife would never stand for anything like that... and business is business.

Daphne wrung her hands. "This can't go on. Things will surely change. Why people don't starve—they really do get work!" She even laughed a little. Daphne Haines starving? Of course not... nobody you know starves.

But the days came and went, there was a round hole in the sole of one shoe, and only one five-dollar bill, the last one, was left. "Come back in a day or two, maybe the girl I got now won't do," the big man who wanted a bookkeeper and stenographer for wholesale millinery had said.

He was middle-aged and kindly, with gray hair and benevolent, watery blue eyes. He had held her hand and patted it, which vaguely frightened her. She had determined not to go back. Still, he looked awfully kind... perhaps he didn't mean anything...

"I'll go back," she decided. "Nothing very terrible can happen to you in a great big millinery place full of girls!"

It was late afternoon when she reached the dingy office building that housed the Acme Millinery Co. It was fifteen blocks from the employment agency where she had sat until nearly 4 o'clock, and the filled out cards, answered interminable questions.

"Eighteen? You don't look it, my dear!" Click! The employment secretary's mouth shutting hard.

Daphne was glad to find it. She had ridden out on the cars with her suitcase, hoping to find a room out there because one of her school teachers lived in that location with her mother, and Daphne had once visited her in vacation time. It was the only street car line she knew.

"A girl can't be too careful in the city," the prim little teacher had said meaningly.

Well, Daphne was going to be careful. But a little tingle of excitement cheered her as she lay there in the dark, all alone, and no one to care.

The days that seemed so long as she sat on a bench in the typewriter agency where they get girls positions free, were going much too fast. A week, two weeks, almost three—and no job.

"Tomorrow surely I'll get something tomorrow!" But the days were as like as peas in a pod. The same ads in the papers:

"Steno. Asst. Bkpr. Experienced..."

"Capable steno. References required..."

"Lady for pleasant, dignified sales position. Small investment." She answered them all at first, and later, when the red purse was flatter and every postage stamp counted, only the more likely ones. There were few answers, and they led to nothing. Everyone wanted an experienced girl. One with references. How are you going to get experience and references if no one will give you a chance?

The girls who sat with her in the employment agencies seemed to know each other. They gathered together in little groups, laughing and chatting intimately.

"What? You here too! That's a cute hat, where did you get it? There's a swell sale over at the Emporium, the darlinest georgette step-ins for only— Well, for heav'n's sake, if she isn't sending that lemon out ahead of me! You can't trust that woman; she's got her pets, and nobody else gets a thing. Come on, let's go over to the Remington."

"Oh, that's just as bad. Listen, I heard of a swell place—you pay more, but they've got some keen positions."

Nobody spoke to Daphne. They looked at her coldly, ignored her timid advances. She was an outsider. She didn't belong.

She tried other agencies, too.

Filled out cards, answered interminable questions. "Eighteen? You don't look it, my dear!" Click! The employment secretary's mouth shutting hard.

Daphne's money was rapidly dwindling.

"Almost—very nearly eighteen. I know I can do the work. I haven't had any experience, but I'm really fast and accurate. In school my shorthand teachers said..."

But they never waited to hear what her teacher said.

"Well, come in again. I only need experienced girls today."

"Up and down. Up and down. Market Street to Howard Street, to California, to McAlister, to Van Ness, to the Embarkadero. She walked everywhere now to save carfare. Her black hair clung to her damp forehead, there were dark circles of fatigue under her gray eyes. Her childish mouth drooped with weariness."

It was always the same.

"Yes, I wanted a young girl but... well, I don't think you'll do."

I wanted someone a little older. Nobody would give her a chance.

That frail, delicate look... her too slender hands... her timid, childish voice... the growing fear of what would happen when the last of the money was gone.

Daphne might have been the best stenographer in the city but she didn't look the part. She looked incompetent, and no one wants an incompetent, helpless girl in an office.

"I'm sorry," the women would add, seeing her distress as they turned her away.

"You might drop in again, a little later," the men said. More regretfully, more slowly than the women. Some of them fished a hand in a pocket thoughtfully. Too bad... a pretty little thing... appleblossom skin, long curling lashes... but the wife would never stand for anything like that... and business is business.

Daphne wrung her hands. "This can't go on. Things will surely change. Why people don't starve—they really do get work!"

She even laughed a little. Daphne Haines starving of course not... nobody you know starves.

But the days came and went, there was a round hole in the sole of one shoe, and only one five-dollar bill, the last one, was left. "Come back in a day or two, maybe the girl I got now won't do," the big man who wanted a bookkeeper and stenographer for wholesale millinery had said.

He was middle-aged and kindly, with gray hair and benevolent, watery blue eyes. He had held her hand and patted it, which vaguely frightened her. She had determined not to go back. Still, he looked awfully kind... perhaps he didn't mean anything...

"I'll go back," she decided. "Nothing very terrible can happen to you in a great big millinery place full of girls!"

It was late afternoon when she reached the dingy office building that housed the Acme Millinery Co. It was fifteen blocks from the employment agency where she had sat until nearly 4 o'clock, and the weeks of thirteen-cent lunches and eighteen or twenty-three-cent cafeteria dinners were beginning to tell. Daphne was more tired than she knew.

"Fifth floor," she told the wizened little man who ran the elevator.

The iron cage moved upward very slowly. The air was nauseating with the smell of decay: vegetables and meat from the market on the ground floor. "It can't be a very good market," she thought irrelevantly. "I'd die if I had to ride up and down in this elevator. If I get the job I'll use the stairs—there must be stairs."

"Fifth floor," the little old elevator man mumbled. Daphne roused herself and stepped out.

It was an immense loft that the Acme company occupied. The big, central room was aglow with tables of artificial flowers, bolts of var. colored velvets, fells and silks. Over near the windows there were mirrors and hats—hundreds of hats, and boxes stacked to the ceiling. Beyond, behind swinging doors, some of them of glass, were the workrooms and the offices, and the private office of Harvey Gartz.

A girl in a black satin dress that smelled unpleasantly of perspiration and Black Narcissus, emerged from the shadows. Her ringed hand played with her curly bob as she drawled. "Something for you?"

"Mr. Gartz. It was about a position. He told me to come in—"

"Really? Well, I don't think he..."

"Right this way, Miss, er—right in my office!" It was Mr. Gartz himself, holding his door wide. He must have been listening.

The girl in black satin moved away. Daphne felt Mr. Gartz's arm about her waist, as he drew her hospitably into the office. Well, what of it? Wasn't he old enough to be her father?

She took the chair he offered, near the window.
